Re: Letter of Recommendation for Lynnette Munoz

Lynnette has my complete and wholehearted support in her application for a teaching position. I have known Lynn for 15 years and have witnessed her growth and maturity, both as a person and as a professional. She demonstrates both a strong moral character and work ethic. Her dedication, loyalty, honesty, and determination are of the highest caliber.

Between 2008 and 2010 I observed Lynn's growth and development as a teacher. She regularly regaled me with stories from the classroom, both her struggles and her triumphs. At all times, she set her mind to accomplishing more, challenging both herself and her students to achieve their full potential.

In 2011, I had an opportunity to witness first hand Lynn's teaching abilities. She worked for me on a 12 week volunteer project requiring redevelopment of a stagnated curriculum. She brought energy, creativity, and enthusiasm to the task. She not only collaborated with team members to develop the curriculum, but actively participated in its implementation throughout the entire 12 weeks. As a result, the participants learned a great deal, and expressed their appreciation for the material, class format, and felt positively about Lynn's participation in particular.

I sincerely recommend Lynn for a position teaching at your institution. She is a wonderful, kind, and professional individual. Although invaluable to any work environment, I believe she is particularly gifted and suited toward teaching in an educational setting, and would certainly be an asset for your school.

Sincerely,

Eileen Sunny Ochoa, RN
